

The Importance of Professional Development Programs for Employees

When budgets are tight, continuing education is often the first item to be diminished from a company's resources. After all, it does not bring in direct revenue.

Continuing education might not affect your revenue immediately. However, you are investing in employee development that can increase your employee's happiness and build a more creative, sustainable company.

As of 2018, Millennials are the largest generation in the workforce at 1 out of 3. A recent study by Gallup shows that "Millennials are not pursuing job satisfaction — they are pursuing development... Giving out toys and entitlements is a leadership mistake, and worse, it's condescending. Purpose and development drive this generation."

If you want to retain Millennials then invest in their professional development. Trophies and bonuses don't work for this generation.

5 Tools for Professional Development

Conferences

Book your employees to attend an industry-related conference. These conferences often are held by industry-leaders. They can be inspirational for your employees.

TedTalks
